

How I made over £504 in a month with this simple 4-step technique (Not Matched Betting!!)

Over the past few months, I have been making steady winnings: £453, £407 and £504. The craziest thing is, it has been so simple to do.

To sum up how I have managed to do this into bullet points:

- 1) I followed professional tipsters and checked out what profits they were averaging each month
- 2) I looked at what odds they were using and the longest losing streaks they had whilst doing so
- 3) I set my stakes based on the odds and losing streaks
- 4) I backed the tips that I liked most from the tipsters with the best records

Here's a bit more detail:

1) I researched different websites that had tipsters that made money on a consistent basis. I like www.kingfootballtips.com the most, as it offers a list of different tipsters that make consistent profits each month. I followed the Mixed Tipster along with some other tips that I liked the look of from the other tipsters.

PROFIT TIP NAME	THIS MONTH'S PROFIT (£10 STAKES)	THIS MONTH'S WIN RATIO (LESS VOIDS)
Mixed Tipster	+£103.00	62%
Super-Sub Tipster	+£49.30	67%
Four-Four-Two Tipster	+£45.00	60%
Puntman Tipster	+£18.20	50%
Fixture Tipster	+£13.40	48%
Pickstar Tipster	+£8.00	57%

2) The Mixed Tipster averaged odds from 4/5 to 8/5 (1.8 to 2.6) and the longest losing streak was three losses.

The Mixed Tipster (odds from 1/2+) sees a 147%, 91% & 87% ROI (bet as singles):

Bnot Metanya vs Hapoel Petah Tikva - Under 2.5 Goals @ 10/7 - HERE

(Israeli Women's First Division, 6.30pm Kick Off)

Breidablik Kópavogur vs Stjarnan - Breidablik Kópavogur Win @ 10/11 @ HERE

(Icelandic Cup, 8pm Kick Off)

Barcelona vs Celta Vigo - Under 1.5 Yellow Cards in the First Half @ 13/15 @ HERE

(Spanish Copa del Rey, 8.30pm Kick Off)

PROFIT = +£32.50 (with £10 stakes)

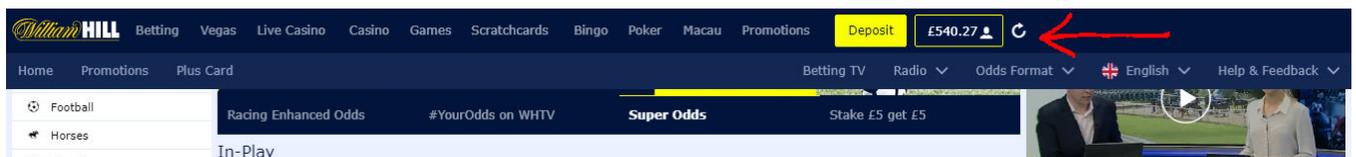

3) Based on those stats, I set my stakes. The overall bankroll that I was willing to use was £250 (if you have less or more to play with, you can adjust the stakes accordingly).

4) I then started by staking £15 on each tip. Based on an average odd of 1/1 (2.0 or 'Evens'), if there were two losses in a row, I would then raise the stake to recoup the amount I spent on the last two losses; $£15 + £15 = £30$. If that tip failed, I would double the stake to recoup that loss $£15 + £15 + £30 = £60$. If that tip failed, I would double the stake again; $£15 + £15 + £30 + £60 = £120$. If that tips lost, it would mark four losses in a row, something that has yet to happen. However, I would still have enough in my bankroll to double up for the next tip; $£15 + £15 + £30 + £60 + £120 = £240$ (just under my bankroll limit). This would mark the fifth bet after four losses, the chances of another loss here is very low. In fact, three losses in a row has only occurred once! As such, this strategy should see any losses recouped due to the odds used.

To round up:

This strategy isn't risk-proof and some people are against recouping losses in this way. I did take a risk in that potentially a losing streak could have gone over four losses (a 67% increase in losing streak; from three losses in a row to five losses in a row) and wiped my bank (i.e. five losses in a row would've meant that the sixth bet would have surpassed my £250 bankroll). The fact is that people are making profits from these tipsters by staking the same amount each bet, without strategising to recoup losses. As such, I took that calculated risk to turn more money over faster.

The odds were in my favour, as I prepared to not only match the highest losing streak, but to budget beyond that. Also, you could strategise for more potential losses (e.g. six losses in a row) by using smaller stakes or having a greater bankroll to utilise. Now that I have followed these tips for a while, my bank has grown much greater and I can afford an even longer losing streak to recoup any losses if this were to happen. Next month I am raising my stakes to £25 a bet. Roll on more winnings!
